Issue Unless Made for Party Purposes. WASHINGTON, May 24.—The consideration of the bill relating to the Philippine Islands was resumed in the Senate to-day, and Mr. Spooner (Rep., Wis began the third day's installment of his speech in support of it. He began with a review of the occurrences immediately preceding the outbreak of hostilities at Manila, denied the assertion that they were begun by the American troops, and quoted an order and a letter written by Aguinaldo a week before the outbreak, going to show that the week and the day had been fixed by him; that the day was Feb. 5, 1899, and that the outbreak occurred the day before it was intended.

Mr. Spooner quoted a cable despatch from Gen. Otis as to the first battle fought with the insurrectionists in Manila, and said that he had this afternoon received a letter from the chief of the anti-imperialists in Boston charging Gen. Ous with being a liar in sending that despatch.

Here Mr. Allen (Pop. Neb.) broke in with the assertion that an army officer (whose name he would not give had told him that Gen. Otis's statement was false. 'If this officer," Mr. Spooner replied,

"charges falsehood on his commanding officer he should do it in the open." 'He could not afford it," Mr. Allen pleaded.

"Then he ought to shut up," Mr. Spooner ex-claimed, and there was laughter throughout the chamber. "There never was a time," Mr. Spooner continued, "when the Army of the United States, as illustrious as is its history, was commanded by more honorable men than those who com mand it to-day." In another part of the speech Mr. Alien broke in with the remark: "I have assumed, all the

"Yes." Mr. Spooner snapped back, "and I can sum it all up in one sentence. You are opposed to everything that is, and you are it favor of everything that is not, never was and never will be." [Loud and general laughter.] Mr. Allen said he would not interrupt the Senator further, but he proposed to reply to him afterward. Mr. Spooner was proceeding with his remarks when Mr. Tillman rose. With an air of mingled surprise and humor, Mr. Spooner said that he had not been saying a word about the darky of had not been saying a word about the darky of South Carolina. He had not even looked at the Senator. [Laughter.]

"Will you allow me to make a remark notwithstanding?" Mr. Tillmann-sked.
Mr. Spooner—Well, what is it?
Mr. Tillman—Gen. Otls is his worst witness against his own veracity; he has so often telegraphed that the insurrection is over, while it is to-day as strong as ever.
Mr. Spooner (disdainfully)—Is that all? The Senator attempts to discredit the words of Gen. Otls because he has reported from time to Senator attempts to discredit the words of Gen. Mr. Tillman—Why was he recalled? Mr. Tillman—Why was he recalled?
Mr. Spooner—He was recalled at his own request, because he had for a long time been bearing on his shoulders the great responsibilities of the position he held, and where he earned the gratitude, to say nothing of the respect, of the American people.
Mr. Spooner referred to the anti-imperialists, and spoke of Mr. Bryan as having lobbled for the ratification of the peace treaty and then turned round and raised the cry of anti-imperialism. "There is not," he declared, "nor an issue of imperialism and anti-imperialism." "The question of imperialism," Mr. Teller (Sil., Rep., Col.) broke in, "was raised by Ke-(Sil. ratification of the treaty meant what you are now contending that the Administration intenes to do. I voted to ratify the treaty and have never regretted that vote. But it is unfair for the Senator from Wisconsin to state that Mr. Bryan is the author of anti-imperialism."

"Well," said Mr. Spooner, "he has done more, in the way of public speeches and writings, to attack what he calls imperialism than any other man in the country. But there is no issue of imperialism and anti-imperialism unless it is made for party and political purposes. The President has had but one policy, and that is to go forward in the execution of the laws. We took our share of the responsibility. We increased the Army and put it at his command, knowing that he would use it to assert and maintain the sovereignty of the United States in the Philippine archipelago. That is territory of the United States. Who can dispose of it? Can the President? The President has made no speech in which he has not asserted that the power of disposal was in Congress. It is a baneful issue, a wicked issue. The utterances on that subject in this country have been in the highest degree harmful to our soldiers. It is my opinion that the agitation has prolonged the insurrection and has cost millions of money and the lives of many of our soldiers." rrection and has cost millions of money and lives of many of our soldiers." the lives of many of our soldiers."

Mr. Allen—What is the attitude of the Republican party?

"The attitude of the Republican party." Mr. Spooner replied forcefully, "is to force and maintain the authority of the United States in the Philippine archipelago."

Mr. Allen—That being done, what follows?

Mr. Spooner—To organize as speedily as possible a government over there, civil and military, adapted to the necessities of the different tribes and peoples, to give them honest courts of justice, to abolish (and that has been already done) ecclesiastical courts, so that the friar may be brought into the ordinary courts and tried as other men are; to protect life and liberty and property; to fill the couniry with schoolhouses, to be just and generous to the people, giving them participation in their local government; to maintain the laws there so honestly and fairly that no man, however rich, shall be beyond their reach if he does wrong, and no man, however humble, shall be without their protection. Is there any imperialism in that?

Mr. Allen—And when all these things are ac-their protection. Is there any imperians in that?

Mr. Allen—And when all these things are accomplished what does the Senator propose to do with the Philippine Islands?

Mr. Spooner—It will take some time to accomplish all this. I do not expect to be here. It will not come for some years yet; but I do not hesitate to say that when the day does come that the Filipines give evidence of their ability to maintain a government and to discharge its o maintain a government and to discharge its unctions the American people will give it to Reaching at last the closing part of his speech, them, and if there were no bridges they would build them.

"In the end," said he, "the day will come (and I nope it will not be long in coming) when the Filipino people, with entire coofidence in us, with presperity among themselves, with an appreciation of liberty, with some knowledge of what government is, will be able to maintain an autonomous government; and, when that day comes. I doubt not that the American people will promptly accord it to them. And if, in the end, it shall turn out that by the Spanish-American War we have liberated Cula from the tyranuv of Spain, carried blessing and prosperity to the people of Porto Rico, and in the far-away Pacific brought a heterogeneous people together into one people, educated them in self-government, and given it to them, we shall have worked out a consummation more glorious and given a greater exemplar of liberty and of what liberty can do, than has ever before been seen in the history of the world."

There was an outbreak of applause when Mr. Spooner concluded his long, eloquent and deeply interesting speech, and many Senators crowded around where he was standing and extended warm congratulations.

Increase Wages of Government Printers. WASHINGTON, May 24.—The House Committee on Labor had a lively session to-day on Repre sentative Glynn's bill, fixing $2 per diem as the minimum pay for unskilled laborers in the Government service. Employees of the Government Printing Office and the Bureau of Printing and Engraving were present to urge their claims for increase in pay, and Mrs. Charlotte Smith appeared in behalf of the women who act as assistthe plate printers in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who get only $1.25 per diem and who think they are entitled to $2. Mrs. Smith caused a commotion by an attack on former Representative Timothy J. Campbell of New York. In a letter to Representative Henderson Mrs. Smith charged that Mr. Campbell had made an agreement with the employees of the Government Printing Office to do some lobbying in connection with their bill to increase their wages. For his work he was to receive $5,000, of which $400 had been paid him, when the Public Printer heard of the arrangement and stopped further payments. After the hearing a member of the committee remarked that if Mrs. Smith could substantiate her charges he would move that the privileges of the floor of the House be denied Mr. Campbell.

A prominent member of the House Commit A prominent member of the House Commit-tee on Labor, who was some what interested in Mrs. Smith's allegations, said to a representa-tive of THE SUN in the House lobby to-day; "The work being done in the interests of Government employees is beginning to be something fearful and we see reely know where to turn. Lobbyists infest the Capitol, and every one appears to be interested in securing an advance in wages for some branch or other of the public service. The charges made by an advance in wages for some branch or other of the public service. The charges made by Mrs. Smith are by no means new, for I heard a long time ago that a considerable fund was raised in the Government Printing Office to pass a bill to increase the wages of employees there. I asked a friend of mine, a conservative man, to make an estimate of the amount of money raised to pass the bill for the letter carriers and railway mail clerks. He made inquiry and estimated that not less than $250,000 had been contributed for this purpose. The assessment on the letter carriers was, we understand, $20 per head, which would give a fund of about $150,000. We cannot afford to pass bills where such methods are employed. I have known meritorious measures to fail where it was suspected that indirect pressure was being brought to bear on the legislators."

CHICAGO, May 24 -To prevent the drawof the Methodist Church it was decided in the General Conference this morning that the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society should retain its present organization with two secretaries to be coordinate in authority. This decision was reached only after three hours of debate, in which the Constitution of the United States, race distinction and numerous other matters were brought for discussion. The matter of reducing the number of secretaries and of consolidation had been under the consideration of the Committee on the State of the Church, which body declared last week that the time was not ripe for consolidation. The Conference then appointed a Committee of Fifteen to report upon the scheme of having one executive secretary with as many assistants as might be deemed efficient, instead of having several such officers coordinate in authority. The Committee reported through ex-Gov. R. E. Pattison of Pennsylvania, recommending the one man mittee reported through ex-Gov. R. E. Pattison of Pennsylvania, recommending the one man power.

Southern delegates, conspicuous among them the colored preachers, vigorously opposed the adoption of the report. They argued that race prejudice would result and the great work of the Southern Education Society would be destroyed. As a compromise a motion was made requesting that all reference to the Freedmen's Aid Society be stricken out of the report, and that the society continue as it is. The report of the committee, as amended, was ultimately adopted, but not until a most vigorous debate occurred. Several votes were taken on the many motions, and often standing votes were called for. Dr. Buckley, Dr. Lanahan is ss. years old and declared that he would have to take to his bed after his speech, but he considered the question so important that he was willing to suffer anything to present his views. His allotted time expired before he finished, but by a unanimous vote it was extended.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason, one of the secretaries of the organization, was eulogized by almost every speaker, and it seems certain that he will secure reelection to his present place. Bishop-elect J. W. Hamilton was the other Secretary of the society, and many candidates are out for the chair of the new superintendent. A motion was made and passed to have the Conference adjourn Tuesday, May 29, at 12:30 P. M.

The action of the Commission on Episcopacy in fixing Episcopal residences has excited much unfavorable comment. Hitherto the Bishops have had the right to choose their own places of residence. For nine years he was in the business of a newspaper circulator and was employed first by the Cincinnati Commercial and then by the Cincinnati Enquirer. In 1880 he went to St. Louis and has been ever since an employee in the Methodist Book depository connected with the Cincinnati Book concern.

The next business of the body was the report of Chairman R. S. Copeland from the Standing Committee on Epworth League. This report discussed the proposed consolidation of the General Secretary of the league with the editor of the Epworth Heraid, and reported adversely on it. Dr. W. H. Crawford made a minority report recommending the consolidation. The result of this action will be that when the conference elects secretaries to-morrow it will elect the General Secretary of the Epworth League, who has hitherto been elected by the Board of Control of the League, and will at the same time attach to the office the editorial control of the Epworth Heraid. Dr. Joseph F. Berry, the present editor of the paper, can have the place if he wants it.

This action leaves out in the cold the present General Secretary of the league, Dr. W. P. Thirkfield, who was President of Gammon Theological Seminary at Atlanta, Ga., until a few months ago, when he was elected to his present place to succeed Dr. E. A Schell. The Hon. Wayne Mac-Nest will be present. The Hon. Wayne MacVeagh of Pennsylvania will deliver the oration commemorative of the life and services of Judze Marshall, and the celebration will conclude with a banquet at hight. The committee further resolved to invite the bench, the bar and the students of law, in the several States, to organize similar celebrations for that day in their respective localities. The courts will be requested to adjourn in honor of the day. Where bar associations and law schools exist, they are in vited to proceed at once to organize local celebrations of the same general character as that provided for the national celebration, choosing orators to deliver addresses, and adding such other features as they may see fit. In localities where there are no regular organizations, members of the bench and bar are invited to cooperate in organizing celebrations.

"Pursuant to the instructions of the committee, I take the liberty of thus formally bringing the occasion to the attention of the legal fraternity. No state has furnished greater contributions of talent and learning to the jurisprudence of America than New York; no community appreciates more thoroughly the inestimable value of the genius, the learning and the faithful services of John Marshall to his whole country. No man ever did more to elevate and dignify the profession, or to increase the respect of the American people for the laws of that country. It is believed, desired and hoped that the State of New York will celebrate this occasion in a manner worthy of the man whose virtues and intellect we seek to commemorate, and worthy of the State itself." The Philadelphia police were notifled, and today Detectives Donaghy and McKenty, accompanied by Raiph Hartman, the messenger boy, who is an important witness in the matter of identifying the murderers of Wilson, came to Trenton and visited the workhouse. Hartman positively identified the negro as one of the men who inquired of him the way to Germantown Junction on the night of the murder. The detectives discovered a stain on the leg of Burrell's trousers, which they believe is blood.

ITHACA, May 24.—Though Cornell's second crew has to meet the second crew from Columoia and Pennsylvania in less than a week, it was not until to-night that Coach Courtney announced that he would send the freshman crew o Philadelphia. The freshmen are an exceptionally strong lot and they have been rowing very fast of late. Some of the members of the Varsity crew are dissatisfied with the work of Magoffin as corswain, and say they will be greatly disappointed if he is put in the Varsity shell at Poughkeepie. They have carried the matter to the Athletic Council and as a result the coach, though he disliked to take Magoffin from the boat, told the men they could have whomever they chose as coxswain. This will mean that Long, who for some time has been the coxswain of the second combination, will get Magoffin's place. Magoffin has been a needy student, but a faithful crew man, and it is likely that when the facts become generally known the student body will feel indignant at the men who have forced Magoffin from the Varsity boat. tionally strong lot and they have been rowing

FARMER'S WIFE MURDERED.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—All West Chester and that part of Chester county was stirred to a high pitch of excitement this morning when the news of the murder of Mrs. Stella Morrison, the twenty-six-year-old wife of William Morrison, a well-known farmer, residing near Darlington's Corner, four miles from the county seat, became known. Many men joined with the authorities in their search for the murderer. It was not until several hours after was made. The scene of the crime is about referring the matter vaca a committee to tery.

Moderator Bird appointed a committee to confer with the Southern Baptist Convention with regard to the matter of more perfect unification of the societies of all the different denominations churches. The Assembly, before adjourning, authorized the Moderator and stated clerk to send letters of greeting to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the United Presbyterian Associations, both in session in Chicago.

The elder Morrison, who is upward of 80 years of age, was working in a field about half a mile away from the house, and it was about 4 o'clock when he returned home. On the floor lay the woman's body, her head in a pool of blood, with her skull crushed in.

There was evidence of a terrible struggle. Alongside of the body lay a heavy hickory club with sharp edges and an iron handle on one end. It was covered with blood and hair and one heavy blow from it would have been sufficient to kill a man. The woman's face was smashed in and her body was also badly bruised. The body had lain in such a position that the door of the room could not be opened and the murderer had to move it to a different place to escape.

The elder Morrison immediately called for help, and word was sent to the woman's husband, who was away at his work all day. The only clue to the murderer is furnished by Daniel and Lawrence Hackey, two residents of the community, who were working near the Morrison house during the afternoon. About 2 o'clock, so far as they can say, they heard the woman in the house scream "diet out of here!" Thinking that she was crying at some chickens in the yard, they allowed the Incident to pass unnoticed, and they knew nothing about the crime until it was discovered several hours later.

Glassenberg's lawyer pleaded for his release. The boy was a very bad boy, he said, and the father had to correct him.

Fifty-six enwhich will take place on June 2. Fifty-six entries were received, which is eight more than last year. Philadelphia, Newark and Troy will be represented, while Columbia University has entered two crews. An unusually large entry has been received for the eight-oared races, twelve crews being scheduled to start. All the events filled well except the intermediate double and junior four oared shell, for which additional entries may be made until Monday night. It was decided to run a steamboat for those wishing to see the regatta in addition to the usual official tug.

at the Nassau Country Club. Of the thirty-two who sallied out in the morning the only survivors at nightfall were Kennaday, Douglas, Graham, Harriman, Watson, Travis, Norris and Seeley. They will be paired as named this morning, when the excitement begins again. Only three of this coterie qualified at Garden City last April, Harriman, the winning Douglas and Travis. Seeley played but did not qualify, but the schoolboy has squared matters this time by outlasting the two collegians who appeared, while Kennaday, Graham, Watson and Norris did not start at all in the first championship. It was a day of fine golfing under the pleasantest of conditions. The greens, under the steady use of the clippers and rollers, were better than on the first day, and there were keen "galleries" to follow the most noted players. F. O. Beach, Meadow Brook, was the only absentee, which gave to Travisa walkover, and, after the quadruple tie had been settled, the pairs were off early in the morning. In playing off the tie John Moller, Jr., Apawamis, dropped out on the first hole, taking 6, while the others each had a 5. It was a lucky 5 for Harris, but the other two missed easy puts for a 4. R. H. Robertson, St. Andrew's, with 6 won his way to play with Menzies on the second hole, the others taking 7. Then, on the third green, S. H. Harris, Montclair, put out Samuel Frothingham, Rockaway Hunting, by 4 to 5. Harris was then paired with Singer and the playing schedule was completed. Both the college boys, Dahlgren and Dwight, were put out in this Dahlgren and Dwight, were put out in this round, while Brooks, runner-up last year, Hamilton, Cochrane and the noted Tyng were also among the defeated.

Hamilton had been drawn against F. S. Douglas, and as the match promised much more of interest than is usually seen in the sifting out round of a tournament, there was quite a turn-out of followers to walk after the pair. Douglas had the command from the first hole, where he stole a half in 4 by a long put, when by every chance Hamilton seemed to have the hole safe. Thereafter he outplayed Hamilton in a decisive way, although the latter made few very bad mistakes. After the match had been all square on the sixth green, Hamilton made a series of poor approach shots to the seventh green, Douglas winning the hole in 6 to 7. The short hole following, 161 yards, Douglas also won, driving within a foot of the cup and running down the put. Douglas then kept on in good style, winning by 2 up and 1 to play. The cards:

Brooks was quite off his short game, usually the special feature of his play, and Robbins led

The summary of the morning follows :

Both Norris and Graham won their matches on the home green. Emmet said that the game with Norris was the best he had ever played. He had been 1 down with 3 to go, but managed to draw the issue down to a put on the last hole. The best ball score for this match shows the pace that was set:

The cards for the Graham and Michael match show the same sort of a finish: Graham 5 4 4 6 5 6 4 5 8 44 Michael 5 7 5 7 7 4 6 1 5 5 4 8 4 15 8 9 Michael 6 5 6 5 5 5 5 4 3 4 4 3 9 1 Ballou, by 1 up (twenty-three holes): Travis beat Singer, by 4 up and 3 to play; Norris teat Emmet by 1 up; Seeley beat Menzies, by 4 up and 3 to play. At the Ardsley Club yesterday, in the semi-finals for the women's semi-annual champon-ship, Miss Vanderhoef beat Mrs. A. De Wut Cochrane by 4 up and 3 to play and Miss Brooks beat Mrs. M. M. Van Buren by 3 up and 2 to play. The finals will be played this afternoon.

SHARKEY AND JEFFRIES MATCHED They Agree to Fight at the Club Offering the Largest Purse on Aug. 25.

Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey were matched again yesterday. The managers of the big pugilists met in the afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Delavan House, and in about fifteen minutes a contest was arranged. Tom O'Rourke acted for Sharkey, while Billy Brady did the talking for the champion. Billy Madden was there in the interest of Gus Ruhlin, while Jack Rose and Joe Humphreys were on hand to make bids for the encounter. Rose represented a syndicate of sporting men who have a clubbouse within fifty miles of New York, which he says can seat 15,000 persons. Humphreys was the agent for Bill Crowley of the Nutneg A. C. of Hartford, Conn. His bid was 682-3 per cent. of the rate Bill Crowley of the Nuthing A. C. of Hartford, Conn. His bid was 662-3 per cent. of the rate receipts. The club, he said, would agree to build a glass roof in case the men made up their minds to fight there, and pictures of the barts are to be taken. Brady broke the ice by declar-ing that Jeffries would fight Sharkey, and that he had come there for the purpose of binding a match.

"On what conditions?" inquired O'Rourks

"On what conditions?" inquired O'Rourke earnestly.

"The same as their match at Coney Island," replied Brady. 'Straight Queensberry rules, no bandages, and for twenty-five rounds."

"That will suit me," returned O'Rourke.
"How about the date and referee?"

"Well," answered Brady, 'Jeffries has made up his mind that he has done a lot of fighting since he became champion and is eager for a rest. But he wants to engage in another fight before the first of September, when the law abolishing boxing in this State goes into effect. After that Jeffries will not fight any one for a year. The champion consequently will be prepared to meet Sharkey on Saturday, Aug. 25, and will insist on Charley White as referee."

O'Rourke said that both requests suited him. Then the question of clubs came up. Brady said that despite reports to the contrary, he is not interested in the Westchester A. C. and wanted to know if that club should happen to give the best incentive would be (O'Bearles).
